GOT HIM BOTTLED WITHOUT DOUBT.

So Says Schley of the Spanish Admiral.

Cervera Has Been Seen and His Ships Are In the Harbor.

Washington, D. C., May 30.—Sigsbee, of the St. Paul, and the hero of the Maine, has solved the problem. The Spanish Admiral Cervera and his fleet are securely bottled in the harbor at Santiago, and the aggressive power of the army and navy may now go on.

Commodore Schley has wired the Navy Department that the Spanish fleet is within the harbor. Capt. Sigsbee steamed in close enough to see and recognize the squadron of the enemy, and Schley waits outside with a force sufficient to destroy it should an attempt be made to escape. A dispatch from Kingston, Jamaica, gives a report that Cervera's squadron is in Central American waters, but this is not credited in view of the news from Schley.

The powerful fighting fleet of Rear Admiral Sampson is ready for action off the North coast of Cuba.

To Attack Santiago

Question Now Being Discussed.

Washington, D. C., May 30.—(Special.)—The interior of the province of Santiago is controlled by the insurgents, and it would be comparatively easy for Schley to open communication with them and for them to send spies into the city to secure information. There are about 30,000 Spanish soldiers in and around Santiago. Capt. Alfred Poe, of New York, who has just returned from Gen. Garcia's headquarters with Lieut. Rowan's party, says that there are garrisons of Spanish troops and volunteers in all of the small towns around Santiago for a radius of twenty-five or thirty miles, which are well fortified and have good artillery, with which they have been successful in standing off the insurgents, although the latter have kept them in a stage of siege and have cut off their supplies from the country. The people of Santiago have been fed with produce that has been brought in by boats. Now that the blockade has stopped that they will be dependent entirely upon what they had in store and the vegetables that can be raised in the suburbs of the city.

The normal population of Santiago is 71,000 by the latest official returns, which has been increased to 100,000 by the military garrison. The town is easily fortified and difficult of assault, because of the hills surrounding it. It lies in a pocket. The fortifications on the land side are more formidable than those on the sea, and are well defended by modern Krupp rapid-fire guns. Capt. Poe says it would require a large force and a tremendous sacrifice of life before the city could be taken. A short line of railway runs up from Santiago city about thirty miles into the interior to a town called St. Luis. Another line of railway connects the iron mine at Cobre, which belonged to the Rockefellers, with their docks on Santiago bay. Both of these roads are well fortified the entire distance and protected by Spanish troops and volunteers. Within the fortified zone outside of the city there are perhaps 20,000 soldiers, which make a total of 80,000 that will have to be dealt with when an attack is made. The only way to capture Santiago, Capt. Poe thinks, would be to drive the outlying garrison into the city, cut off their supplies from the country and starve them out. This would be of course occasion a good deal of suffering and the sacrifice of the lives of great many innocent people, chiefly women and children, because the soldiers would be the first to be fed.

Dewey Captures Another Ship,

The Spanish Gunboat Leyte.

Hong Kong, May 30.—(Special.)—The British second-class cruiser Pique has arrived here from Iloilo and Manila. She reports all quiet at both places.

Supplies are reaching Manila plentifully from the surrounding country. There is no panic at Manila.

The Americans have captured the Spanish gunboat Leyte, which was attempting to run dispatches into Iloilo.

Still In the Cadiz Harbor

Is That Second Spanish Fleet.

New York, May 30.—(Special.)—A dispatch to the Herald from Gibraltar says that it may be positively stated that there has been no movement from Cadiz of the Spanish reserve Squadron.

MYSTERY SOLVED.

The Stranger at Howell Identified As Dr. Churchill.

A Wealthy English Tourist, Claiming to Be Kin to Gladstone.

The Howell mystery has been solved. The stranger who was found helpless on the railroad track Friday, recovered consciousness Saturday and was able to give an account of himself.

He gave his name as Dr. M. D. Churchill and says his home was in England. He claimed to be very wealthy and highly connected. According to his statement his aunt was a sister of Hon. Wm. E. Gladstone, which would make him a nephew of the Grand Old Man. He said he left his trunks in Evansville and had been to Dixon, Tenn., to look at some land with a view to buying it, and that he was knocked in the head where he was found and robbed of $800 by unknown parties. He was walking from Clarksville and stopped at Bell's to get some medicine. As reported in the Kentuckian, Churchill was taken to Mr. Fox's, where he remained until Sunday. He then left for Clarksville, saying he would cable to England for some money. His income, he said, was 25,000 pounds a year. His business in America was to seek landed investments for his capital. Churchill, if that was his real name, was master of seven different languages and was undoubtedly a man of wide information and aristocratic breeding. He was very sensitive and refused to accept money, when he was questioned so closely that he saw that his story was not given full credence. It is not known what became of him after he reached Clarksville.

TWENTY-FOUR GET IN.

The company mustered in at Lexington with Noel Gaines as Captain is charged up to Hopkinsville, although less than one-third of the men are from Hopkinsville. From the published list the following are the Hopkinsville men and the positions they fill:

Robt. C. Payne, Second Lieutenant.
Hiram P. Thomas, First Sergeant.
J. H. Hicks, Second Sergeant.
E. P. Zimmer, Sergeant.
M. J. Coleman, Sergeant.
E. W. Starling, Sergeant.
C. E. Jackson, Corporal.
F. J. Patten, Corporal.
Gus Breathitt, Corporal.
J. E. Buchanan, Corporal.
Felix Robinson, Corporal.
C. S. Waller, (Mayfield) Corporal.
W. P. Winfree, Jr., Musician.
Jas. Wootton, Wagoner.
Privates, Jas. M. Breathitt, E. H. Brown, R. H. Bush, C. A. Brumfield, W. M. Cornelius, Walter Couch, (Pembroke) Harry L. Girard, Wm. C. Mills, E. P. Morgan, Robt. F. McDaniel, F. O. Prowse, Hugh G. Thompson, (Cadiz) Otto Vaughan, Wm. B. Witty and Thos. J. Williams, (Trenton).

Col. Smith's Trip South.

A Lexington dispatch says Col. Smith has requested the transportation department at Chicago to send the Third regiment to Chattanooga by way of the Louisville and Nashville road in order that the boys may pass through that section of the State where their parents and friends reside. As yet he has not been informed as to whether this will be done, but it is believed that the regiment will be sent by the Southern direct. Col. Smith's idea was to leave Lexington Wednesday morning and reach Chattanooga the next morning, allowing short stops at each of the small towns enroute through Southwestern Kentucky.

BAILEY DISAPPEARS.

Proprietor of the European Hotel Leaves City.

His Whereabouts Is Unknown To His Wife—Letter Received Shows No Light On It.

J. L. Bailey, proprietor of the European Hotel, on Seventh street, has disappeared.

He left the city on the 23d instant and his wife nor any of his relatives know his whereabouts.

Mr. Bailey is twenty-three years old and has been a man of temperate habits and good character. His domestic relations were apparently happy. His wife is at a loss to account for his strange conduct.

One week ago yesterday he packed his grip and told his wife that he was going to take a trip. She did not suspect that he was going a great distance and did not interrogate him closely as to the object of his trip. Several days passed and she began to be somewhat uneasy about him. Then her father, Mr. Steve Rives, received a letter from him mailed on a train saying that he had gone, expressing the greatest fondness for his wife and telling Mr. Rives to take good care of her. The letter was brief and contained no intimation as to where the writer could be reached or where he was going.

An older brother of Mr. Bailey reached the city Saturday. He made arrangements for his brother's family to give up the European Hotel and rented them a home in the city. He thinks that his brother will return soon.

He left no debts of consequence behind him and had been doing moderately well with the European Hotel. No cause can be assigned for his eccentric course.

YOU NEED NOT WALK.

If You'd Rather Ride Here's Your Chance.

Lieut. W. T. Johnson, of the Tenth cavalry, colored, will be at Bowling Green from to-day until about June 4th securing recruits. From Bowling Green he will come to this city and be here possibly on Saturday and not later than Monday, and remain several days. Any colored men who want to join the army can secure further information by calling upon Mr. J. M. Higgins, who already has a considerable number of prospective recruits in readiness for Lieut. Johnson's coming.

Alger Trying To Head Off Bryan.

Lincoln, Neb., May 30.—There is little probability that Col. W. J. Bryan will get to war with his volunteer regiment. The Third Regiment, of which Mr. Bryan was to be the commanding officer, is ready for the field, but Secretary Alger insists on having the men in the Third to fill to the maximum the regiments already in the service, and unless Gov. Holcomb can have the Secretary change this order Col. Bryan will not get to war unless there is a third call and his regiment answers that.

INTO CUBA NOW
30,000 STRONG.

Gen. Miles' Army of Occupation Now Enroute.

Orders To Start From Tampa At 1 O'Clock This Morning.

Washington, May 30.—(Special.)—The troops at all of the Gulf points will begin to board the transports to-morrow morning for the invasion of the West Indies. Gen. Miles has issued orders to this effect. It is learned that there will be three separate expeditions, consisting of thirty thousand troops in all.

The details of the time and places of the proposed landing are not known and are kept secret by the department.

There have been several successful expeditions landed in Cuba during the past few days, carrying arms and munitions of war for the insurgents.

Porto Rico First Then

Havanna Will Be Taken.

Washington, May 30.—(Special.)—Orders are being sent in great rush to the South this morning, and hurried preparations are being made here to hasten commanding and staff officers to the front. The War Department has closed, and no one, not even members of Congress, are admitted in the offices of war.

I can state that the first invading army will be upwards of 25,000 men, to be landed near Santiago. The city is to be taken, and as soon as the fleet within port is made harmless and the fortifications are in the hands of Americans, the city will be used as a base of supplies for the army, which will be continued to Porto Rico.

A Colored Major. The Only

One In All the Army.

Washington, D. C., May 30.—(Special.)—Four companies of colored troops at Camp Russell A. Alger, near Washington, were reviewed by the President yesterday. Three of them are from Ohio and one from Massachusetts, and in their equipment and appearance they are surpassed by few of the white troops. They are commanded by Maj. Chas. Young. Young is the only colored officer in the United States army. He was born in Kentucky thirty-one years ago and secured an appointment to West Point from the 12th district of Ohio in a competitive examination against twenty-seven white candidates. He stood well at the academy and had comparatively little difficulty. Upon receiving his commission as second lieutenant he was assigned to the 10th cavalry and served with his regiment for five years, and has won the respect of the officers and men. For the last two years he has been detailed as instructor of military tactics at Wilberforce university, Antioch, O.

Colored regiments have already been offered under the new call from New York, Missouri, Kentucky and Ohio.

Our Schley Was Shy and Saw

The Dons In Santiago Harbor.

Washington, May 30.—(Special.)—In addition to the bulletin given out at 1 o'clock this morning, was stated positively that Commodore Schley had seen and recognized the Spanish fleet in the harbor of Santiago de Cuba and had them safely trapped. It is said that Commodore Schley reported seeing three Spanish cruisers of the Vizcaya type and two or three smaller vessels. It is thought that there can be no doubt that the fourth cruiser was there, but that the Commodore was not in position to get a view of it.

The grateful information simplifies the situation. The campaign will now move on.

Britisher Pulled for Trying

To Sell Coal To Cervera.

Key West, Fla., May 30.—(Special.)—The British steamer Restormel was brought in here this morning, under her own steam, by a prize crew. She was captured while trying to put into Santiago de Cuba with a cargo of coal. Lieut. Pattison, the prize commander of the Restormel, made an explicit statement this morning, saying the steamer here to after the first shot. He added that the Spanish forts did not appear to notice the capture. The Lieutenant also said the Restormel is uninjured, and he has made the same statement to the Federal officials here.

The Spanish torpedo-boat destroyer Terror made the trip from Martinique to San Juan safely and is now in the latter harbor.

An Indianapolis man has sued his wife for divorce because she persisted in thinking more of the family cat than she did of him.

The Madisonville Hustler has found its daily edition so profitable for the first month that it will continue its publication for an indefinite period.

Congressmen Robbins, of Pennsylvania, and Broussard, of Louisiana, have left their seats in Congress to enter the volunteer army for Cuban invasion.

Gov. Mc Laurin, of Mississippi, has filled the vacancy in the Senate caused by the death of Senator Walcott, by the appointment of Hon. Wm. V. Sullivan.

"Where is the Klondike?" was one of the questions in the recent examination of teachers and about two-thirds of the applicants missed it, by locating it in Alaska.

President Faure, of France, says his government will maintain a strict neutrality in the Hispano-American war and that he hopes peace will soon be restored.

After the Governor handed the commissions to the officers of the Third regiment, he was informed by Lieut. Col. Jouett Henry that the regiment would be known as the "Bradley Legion."

Although only about one-fourth of the members of Company E, are from Hopkinsville, Gov. Bradley insists upon calling it the Hopkinsville Company. This is done to destroy the claim of Hopkinsville for a company in the new regiment.

Geo. D. Todd, Louisville's first and last Republican Mayor, has announced himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Fifth district and will probably make it interesting for Walter Evans.

The fleet cruiser Columbia put into New York harbor Sunday with a great jagged hole in her starboard side. She had been in a collision with the British steamer Foscolia, which was sunk. The Columbia rescued the Captain and all twenty-one of the merchantman's crew.

It will be remembered that Dewey did not stay outside the harbor of Manila for ten days wondering whether or not the Spanish fleet was inside. It was also recalled, that it did not take him long to get down to business after the enemy had been located.

This month has been one of fearful mortality among the Spanish, according to the sensational evening papers that deal altogether in rumors. Three great battle were reported in which the Spanish loss was 1200 men. At Cardenas 500 were killed, at Cienfuegos 200 and at Santiago only last Saturday 500 more. The only ground for this bloody report was the killing of one man and the wounding of three or four at Cienfuegos.

Orders have been issued to Gen. Shafter to embark his troops at Tampa for transportation to Cuba under a strong convoy of warships. There will be no more Gussie business but the next invasion will be a business transaction. The press censor will suppress all news about the invasion until the troops have been landed in Cuba. If necessary the censorship will be extended to the mails.

The Mayor of Owensboro will put into effect the ordinance ordering the killing of all untamed dogs in the city after June 1st. The police have been instructed to poison them and this calls forth a vigorous protest from the Inquirer, which says: "This is ridiculous, as well as inhuman. If there is to be a dog killing, let it be after catching the dog and keeping him a reasonable time in order to allow his owner a chance to pay the tax and take him out. If no owner comes, then let the killing proceed, but let it be done in a humane way that will not set the perpetrators down as having no feeling for a helpless brute, or for the people who may be forced to witness the agonies of a dog which has been given poison."

A Paducah paper says it is probable that Ben C. Keys, the Populist nominee for Congress, will not make the race. When nominated he stated that he would accept on condition that he could raise the money necessary to pay his expenses. He has not been able to do this, and it is believed that he will withdraw shortly. If he does so the committee will make another nomination. The Republicans will not have a candidate this year, but will support the Populist candidate.

WEATHER FORECASTS.
Indications That a Stormy Time Is Just Ahead.

Hicks, the weather prophet, is summing up the character of weather we may look for from the first of the month, says:
The first storm period for June extends from 1st to 5th. The equinox of Mercury and the beginning of the June solstice will both add to this regular storm period. On the 4th, the moon is full and at both her perigee and greatest declination south. Expect rain, hail, much lightning with some hard winds and possible tornadoes. Change to cooler, higher pressure and westerly winds will come in from northwest, behind the storms, spreading eastward generally and modifying the weather up to about the 7th or 8th. Reactionary weather conditions will take place on and touching the 9th and 10th. Barometer will fall in the regular order, growing warmer and ending in more storms of rain, wind, hail and thunder.

WAS THE MAN TO BLAME?

His Gallantry, Anyhow, Could Not Be Questioned.

She entered a street car on Fourteenth street last Friday, all the seats of which were occupied, but she was not compelled to hang on to a strap. A male person, seemingly a gentleman, rose and offered her a seat, into which she sank with a polite recognition of the courtesy and all the grace of a well-bred woman of 40. The gentleman—or the male bird who had assumed the guise of a gentleman—clung to a strap as gracefully as his sixty-odd years would permit, and the car rolled on for two or three squares before any change in the situation occurred.

Then a large woman, sitting next to the seat vacated by the gentleman and filled by the lady to whom he had tendered it, left the car, and also, left a vacant space wide enough for two average men. Thereupon the lady of this story moved forward, she stooped a foot, and other ladies spread themselves abroad until the seat was covered with garments, and all of the dear, good seats were serenely contented.

But the man on the strap was not filled with beatitude. On the contrary, that man felt the whole line of indignation which his soul should have reared in the happiness of his neighbors.

In his anger he actually let go the strap, and boldly and brazenly stepping up to the seat which he had surrendered, said:

"May I trouble you to sit closer?" To cut his narrative short, he recovered his seat, but the lack of indignation and incensed dignity that overpowered the lady's court answer will haunt that man to his dying day, and it ought to.—Washington Post.

British Government Undertakes to Construct One of Our Italian Battleships.

Those poor simple-minded King's crockers who have been taught to believe that their beloved city was in possession of the British during the major part of the revolutionary war, until the oft-celebrated Evacuation day, November 25, 1783, and that Cornwallis surrendered his army at Yorktown, on the peninsula of Virginia, have been historically upside down for more than a century. Consequently all our books of history must be sent across the ocean for revision.

That this is necessary is shown by a late publication of the British government entitled: "Historical and Descriptive Catalogue of the National Portrait Gallery, Abingdon, Read and Continued by Lionel Cust, M. A. F. S. A. Director, Keeper and Secretary." This great collection of portraits of national worthies includes one of Charles Marquis Cornwallis, K. G., of Gainsborough, and his description in the catalogue is supplemented by a 20-line biography for the information and instruction of all British subjects. The learned director, keeper and secretary, master of arts and fellow of the Society of Antiquaries, has availed himself of this opportunity to teach history anew. For the benefit of those Americans who have a time to spare, the necessary revision of our standard histories, the essential paragraph from this 500-page publication of her majesty's government may be given in advance. It is as follows:

"Toward the end of the American war Lord Cornwallis rendered important military service, but he was at length overpowered, and compelled to surrender his whole army to the united forces of America and France at New York, October 19, 1781."

To the M. A. F. S. A. "Yorktown" was a terra incognita. He had heard once upon a time, however, that there was a small town in the States of America, called New York, so he has revised the biography of Lord Cornwallis to agree with the full measure of his knowledge of the history of his own country and of ours. Will the average Englishman ever learn the elementary facts of American history?—Louisville Courier-Journal.

CRIMINAL ANTHROPOLOGY.

Italy Has Done More for This Science Than Other Nations.

If we were asked to name in what particular Italy stands to-day quite head and shoulders above her fellows, we should unhesitatingly say in the science of criminal anthropology. This is an essentially Italian study, whose origin we discover as early as 1639, when the king of the Two Sicilies decreed that no one should be permitted to practice medicine who had not studied anatomy for at least one year. After this, in the fourteenth century, we find men who devoted themselves to the study of skulls, thus laying the foundation of the science of craniology. It was Italians, therefore, who initiated this science, and to Italy has been reserved the proud place of bringing it to its high development in the nineteenth century, even though the discoveries of Darwin, which gave it a fresh impetus, date from England. Beyond question, the remainder of the world and front of all studies connected with criminal anthropology only, but of all cognate sciences concerned with crime and the criminal.

To the Italians belongs the merit of reviving the study of a question with which philosophy, law and medicine have always been occupied. It has been well remarked that whenever the desire to safeguard society, the spirit of toleration, the methods of ameliorating the fate of the guilty, have been studied by thinkers, their conceptions have eventually conquered public opinion. It is to the glory of Italy, the land where Roman law, the foundation of modern law, was born, that it has again put into the crucible this problem of criminality, and that it has proceeded to the study of this problem by the only truly scientific method—namely, that of studying the psychology of criminals and their physical characteristics.—Helen Zimmerman, in Popular Science Monthly.

Hammers Driven by Air.

Pneumatic hammers, driven by compressed air, are now generally used instead of hand labor for chipping and cleaning iron and steel castings and billets so as to free them from any defects which would injure the finished forms into which they are to be rolled or drawn. This hammer will do the work of three men. The same principle has been applied to the ship yard for calking, in which the old caulking is cut out, doing the work of five or six men.

Taking the world over, there is an average of one death and one and a quart of births per second. Only one-half of all born into the world live to the age of 17 years.

The area of the British colonies is 8,000,000 square miles; that of the French 3,000,000; of the Dutch 650,000; of the Portuguese, 206,000; of the Spanish, 170,000; of the German, 99,000; and of the Danish, 74,000.

The names of no fewer than 105 battles are emblazoned on the banners of the various regiments which form the British army. But many actions of great importance, both as regards military results and the roll of killed and wounded, are not commemorated.

England has learned a lesson from the Jameson raid. Mr. H. Cavendish, who was making preparations to lead a large and heavily-armed expedition into the country on the southern border of Abyssinia, has been notified by the government that it is advisable for him to postpone his project.

Virtue is not a mushroom that springeth up of itself in one night when we are asleep, or reared it not; but a delicate plant, that grows slowly and tenderly, needs much pains to cultivate it, much care to guard it, much time to mature it in our untoward soil, in this world's uncharitable and unkindly weather.

Hans Weichenhufen, who was well known in Germany as a war correspondent, and has written a number of novels, died recently at Marburg, aged 72 years. He reported the Crimean war, the war in Italy, Garibaldi's expedition, the Prussian campaign in Schleswig-Holstein, the "six weeks' war" against Austria, and the Franco-Prussian war.

Berlin is spluttering at the gruesome discovery that there is a trade understanding between professional nurses and undertakers. Competition between the latter has raised the regular commission paid a nurse to 30 per cent. of the cost of a funeral. The fact that a doctor has made this state of things public, with the suspicion that the undertakers may have to square with that profession also, adds to the cheerfulness of Berlin patients.

WHY THE GOOSE IS SILLY.

Was Once the Wisest of Creatures—A Tale for Children.

"Why is the goose silly?" repeated Grandpa Longbow, putting down his paper. "Do you know that the goose was once the wisest of all creatures?"

"You don't?"

"Then it might be well for little boys and girls to hear the true story of what happened to the goose."

"Long ago, when the rabbit had the longest tail of any creature living, and when the eagle, then the most timid of birds, used to live on pumpkin-seeds, the goose was very wise. It walked about with a dignified bearing that you can yet see traces of, in spite of its waddling, and by asking questions of everyone it learned all that was really to be known about the dry land."

"But the learned goose was still unsatisfied."

"Why?" it exclaimed, "the world is more than three-fourths water; and though I know all that is to be known on and about dry land, I am ignorant of everything in the water."

"So the goose set about learning how to swim and dive; and after many years of study and questioning it learned all about the water and the creatures that live in it. But still it was not satisfied."

"I know very little about the air," said the learned goose. "I must now learn how to fly like the eagle, so that I will be able to take longer journeys than are possible for one who only swims and walks."

"After much practice the goose learned to fly, and that enabled it to travel so much and learn so much that it finally felt its brain feverish. When it recovered its mind was affected, and it couldn't tell whether it belonged to the sea, like the gull, the dry land like the hen, or the air, like the eagle. And ever since it has been wandering about, a homeless, witless, foolish bird, and all because it asked too many questions and learned too much."

"No, I will not tell you how the rabbit lost its tail, and the eagle became brave and fierce. Remember the fate of the goose, and don't try to learn too much at once!"—Peter McArthur, in N. Y. Independent.

To Cupid's Court.

A party of young Kentuckians arrived here early this morning from ten miles beyond Hopkinsville, having come overland in private conveyances, and one of the party stated that they had traveled almost all of the night, says the Clarksville Times. They were W. E. Marquess and Miss Laura W. Morris and J. E. Canaler and Miss Sadie Marquess. The quartet were registered at the Arlington. About 8 o'clock this morning, or as soon as the office of the County court clerk was opened, a marriage license was secured, and Miss Laura W. Morris became the wife of Mr. W. E. Marquess, Squire Z. Smith performing the ceremony about 8:30 in the parlor of the Arlington. It was an eloquent.

IMPARTIAL HANDS

Scatter Flowers Over Graves of Soldiers.

Decoration Day Observed With Appropriate Exercises At Hopewell.

Memorial Day was observed at Hopewell Cemetery yesterday by John V. Boyd Post and Chas. L. White Post G. A. R. The graves of the Federal and Confederate dead were strewn impartially with fresh and fragrant flowers.

A large stand was erected in the Southern portion of the cemetery and in front of this a tent was pitched. Over the grave of Gen. James Jackson near the stand floated a large national flag. On the stand were seated the members of the G. A. R. posts, the choir and prominent local citizens. After the reading of the orders by the adjutant the choir sang "The City of the Dead," and Rev. S. N. Vail offered a fervent prayer. The Odd Fellows' band rendered "Nearer My God to Thee."

Master Alvin Clark recited in a fitting manner a patriotic poem entitled "The Mustered In of Company G." Master James Breathitt won much applause by his admirable recitation "Sleep Softly, Sleep." Mr. M. M. Hanbery, of Cadiz, who had been selected as the orator of the day, was introduced to the audience. Mr. Hanbery spoke forty-five minutes and was heard throughout with the deepest interest. His speech was thoroughly patriotic and eloquent and contained no sentiments that every American could not endorse. The exercises closed with the singing of "America" by the audience and the choir and a benediction by Rev. S. N. Vail.
